Module 8

For this module, I did not have to do much work, seeing as I began organizing my files and giving them appropriate names from the beginning of the class. I have placed all of my WRA210 content in a folder, with separate folders for my modules, my design docs, and notes that I have taken. Doing this has not only helped me see how important organization is, but has given me the ability to better place files. I have also learned how file naming can make or break something, seeing as how links with spaces or upper case letters will not open and files with unclear names are hard to remember, making it difficult to find them. Overall, I am satisfied with the tools I have gained in folder making and naming with this assignment.
